In today's commentary, titled "DeLay hammers Earle of Austin," Ann Coulter rips into Democrat prosecutor Ronnie Earle for his baseless conspiracy charge against Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Texas, that was thrown out of court this week.

Notes Coulter: "It probably goes without saying that it is extraordinary for criminal charges to be thrown out by a judge before any jury ever hears the evidence. Juries decide guilt or innocence in this country. For the judge to dismiss an indictment before trial, it means he concluded that – even if the jury finds everything Ronnie Earle alleges to be true – no crime was committed."
