A thankful letter from Joseph Farah
– 'Praise God for friends like you'

Earlier this month, I wrote a letter that was the toughest thing for me to do.

I bared my soul to you, my friends and supporters, confessing that WND was in serious trouble.

I knew our enemies would see it, too.

I hated to give them comfort. And, boy, did it ever.

But thanks to the amazing response from WND's most loyal readers, I can assure them that the imminent threat to our very existence and viability as America's most daring and courageous voice for liberty is behind us.

This letter is a lot easier to write, because you answered the bell. We're not completely out of the woods, but you have helped buy us some time, for which I am endlessly grateful.

Now I am asking you, not to respond to a present crisis, but to help us avert the next one. When you do what we do at WND, it's only a matter of time – lawsuits, threats, intimidation, defamation, hacking attacks, harassment, persecution – attacks come regularly, and in all shapes and forms.

All that, of course, is on top of the Obama economy, the ravages of which every reader is aware: The entire retail world is in turmoil. Digital advertising is way down. The book publishing world is topsy-turvy. All of these factors profoundly affect WND because they represent many of the ways we support what we do – which is to boldly bring you the unvarnished, not-always-pretty, but accurate and undistorted truth about what's really going on in this chaotic world of ours.

Despite the assault on our nation and world over the last eight years, I, like Donald Trump, still believe America potentially has a great future ahead – with the right kind of leadership and, even more importantly, with a return to God and the principles He set out for liberty and prosperity and blessing.

But for America to get there, it must hear the truth. And that's where WND comes in. Very simply, you cannot have a free country without a free press. It's not possible. Yet as you know, most of America's "big media" serve as little more than a government propaganda ministry. Even much of the "alternative media" are reluctant to cover some of the really consequential stories that – while absolutely vital to the nation – also come with a price tag for the news organization reporting them, in terms of threats, ridicule, boycotts, lawsuits and financial loss.

As I told you in my previous letter, we want to be around when Obama leaves office on Jan. 20, 2017, so we can be part of the national recovery process. And with the help you've already provided, we have more confidence we will be where we need to be.

But what if we were even stronger? Would you consider that a blessing for America's future?

If so, this appeal is for you. Because regardless of who wins the presidential election in November, America is headed for great tumult, as the powerful forces of progressivism, globalism and godlessness that have almost completely taken over our once-great nation will not give up easily, nor without a huge fight.

Don't you want WND to be right there, in the middle of that war zone, our team of intrepid journalists courageously reporting from every corner of the political and cultural battlefield, so you can always remain aware and informed – and prepared – for whatever is coming next?

That's what we aspire to do. That's what we're praying to do. That's our mission.

Will you join us?

What you have done so far is a miracle already. Thank you. Please stay with us now. Help us however you are moved to do, and pray with us for continued blessings.

Here are some specific things you can do to help our team grow and spread the truth:

1. If my plea has resonated with you and you feel moved to help, please consider supporting WND and all we do with a donation. We could really use it. You can make contributions for as little as $3 and as much as $5,000 online. Or you can contribute using your credit card by calling our toll-free customer service line, 1-800-4-WND-COM (1-800-496-3266). We also accept checks in any amount sent to WND, P.O. Box 1627, Medford, OR 97501.

2. Even if you cannot afford to make a donation, if you value what we do at WND, we ask you to please sign up for our free WND News Alerts. For you, it means never missing another big story at WND. But for us, it means much more. Those alerts are revenue generators for us. Advertisers like them because they are delivered to a targeted audience multiple times a day. They also represent our best vehicle for notifying you about our new books, new movies and great deals in the WND Superstore – another key revenue source for us.

3. Indeed, if you value the books we publish and movies we produce at WND and the other incredible products we offer in the WND Superstore, we ask you to make it a point to check out that destination regularly. I find that many of our most ardent visitors don't even know we have the largest online store associated with a content site! You'll not only find the best in books and movies, but unique gifts you won't find anywhere else, preparedness products and much more.

4. Support our advertisers! They represent our life blood. I understand the temptation to use ad blockers, but think about what they represent to us. We have never wanted to charge a subscription price for access to WND because we believe more people need our unique perspective on the news, not fewer. Maybe you've got a business that could benefit from advertising in WND. We can even support local businesses with geo-targeted ads that only your potential customers see. If so, email us at advertising@wnd.com. Our helpful and knowledgeable ad sales team will get back to you right away.

5. Subscribe to our three special magazines – Whistleblower, the acclaimed monthly print magazine that focuses a 10,000-watt spotlight on one crucial topic in each issue. It's like getting an in-depth, definitive, special report exploring one of the most important topics of our time, and every issue is a keeper because of the timelessness of the reports. The other is WND Weekly, a digital, well-illustrated and well-packaged version of the best of WND where you can leisurely see all you missed over the course of the week every Sunday. You will be surprised both by its attractiveness and just how much content got by you over the previous seven days. And we've got one more WND subscription product for you to consider – Joseph Farah's G2 Bulletin. If you're interested in national security, foreign threats and world events that may impact your life, business and country, G2 Bulletin may be just for you. When a new story is posted on the subscription website, you are alerted to check it out – often getting a glimpse of the news before it becomes news!

Thank you so much for reading my message. We at WND would love to be here for you for many more years to come. But truth be told, you are a major part of that, which is why I am humbly asking for your continued help. Bless you for your consideration.
